Week 18: senior experience

It's almost time and I'm working hard on my presentation. I need to fix some things with my website but I'm in the home stretch and I'm excited to show everyone what I've worked on. This class really helped push me and give me a new source of confidence I haven't felt in awhile. I'm very excited for POG and the showcase!

Week 16: senior experience

I'm cutting close with everything but I should be ready for the presentation. I'm only waiting on a few documents and adding final touches to my project. Me and Mrs. Molay are meeting next Tuesday so I can keep it together till then. I've been pondering my presentation and I've decided with experienced input from my mom, to wear my jumpsuit and flats to look professional and make a poster board to frame my project. This process has been herioing but I'm proud of myself for not breaking down and I'm almost ready to present.

My product is almost done but I still need to work some hiccups out (corrupted files). I'm proud of this zine though, looking at everyone's art is motivating me so much and I know I'll get it done. My next meeting with my mentor is coming up on the 11th. As far as my evaluation goes I'm not too sure how I'll be rated. This was mostly an independent project and Mrs Molay acted mostly as a supervisor and only gave me feedback and advice, she never really saw me work but I'm confident I didn't fail.

Week 14: senior experience

As far as this zine goes if I had to start over I'd try to start earlier. Time is a big factor and working around my other classes and mental health is stressful and exhausting. I am happy with my mentor and my process. I've worked really hard and I think I've been pretty efficient with my process. My main concerns are that I need to make my presentation interesting and how I'm going to present.

Week 13: senior experience

Submissions are done and the turnout was great. I've been very busy but production should be beginning soon and I'm looking forward to starting.

Week 11: senior experience

Submissions are closing soon but I got a lot more work than I expected. Everyone has been very cooperative and helped a lot. Unfortunately, it's seeming like we're going to have to abandon the physical copy plans since it wouldn't be practical. It's sad but i'm willing to do it since we can get the zine out easier.

Week 9: senior experience

I've been busy, and a little burnt out but submissions are coming and I'm super happy. It's so nice to see everyone's work come in. I'm still working on getting zine prep together but I'm so glad it's working out.

Week 5: senior experience

Work is moving slow due to school but not completely stopped. I'm looking into how to make the digital pdf work so that we can still offer it. With my school work though it's difficult but not impossible. Working steadily and not giving up is a strong motivation. The website is still under steady construction and I'm hoping to get ahead again.

Week 4: senior experience

Good news! I've been able to find a place to print from mixbook. I'm not too sure if we're still going to be able to do it but I'll meet with Mrs molay to figure out if we can still do it. I'm meeting with her soon. Other than that i'm going to email our art teachers so we can make sure we can finish with submissions and I can start formatting pages. Looking forward to the final stretch.

I'm currently still deciding where to get the zine printed. I want to finish my video soon so I can get more submissions for my zine and I can get more reach with them. I'm hopefully gonna get it together soon so I can leave a mark by giving back to the community that's helped me so much.

Week 1: senior experience

My product is being worked on still and deadlines are coming up. I'm setting the due date for work to the first week of March for any and all work and I'm going to format everything by the end of March so we can be ready by late April for pre-orders. I'm just about finished with my video so everyone can participate. I'm hoping to get as many kids as I can on the project so they can have some fun in this dark time.

Week 15: senior experience

These weeks have been a bit difficult just due to all the holidays and the stress of finals. But my paper is done and I have been working on my hours. I just need to finish my video and get submissions. I'm a bit stressed with it all but the break should give me the time to recuperate and give my all.

Week 13: senior experience

Today I met with my mentor and we discussed how the project is going. I relayed that the project was going smoothly and that I am adapting to the challenges. We also discussed the option of making the project more public for more submissions. Other than that I'm almost done with my project logging my hours are going well too. The school has been a bit difficult since it takes so much of my energy but surprisingly senior experience has been the easiest class for me. All and all success is starting to seem closer

Week 11: senior experience

The process is going well! I've been working with the teachers and working with them for submissions. I'm just about done with my research for my meeting with Mrs. Molay that's coming up. I actually received a submission and I'm really happy about it. Besides that works been ok but I'm really tired just due to all the stuff I have going on but I'm trying to keep my spirits high. After this weekend I need to finish my videos for class presentations since some teachers don't have time for me in their classes or they have too many classes for me to go to. I'm at least comforted in the thoughts that I'm getting my hours quickly and that I'm going to get to see what the students have to offer me.

Week 8: senior experience

My work is moving steadily the only minor setback has been my signatures. I'm going to be re emailing Mrs. Molay so I can get her to sign off on my work. There will most likely be a doc with a table with all the days I worked and what I worked on. I've been researching regularly on formatting tips and publishing places. Research has been slowed a bit due to bigger assignments coming up but I'm still working on it. I'm looking forward to my brake since it will give me some much-needed work time. I've also been trying not to rush as much since it may interfere with my work. I'm going to be emailing and taking notes so I can add them to my hours. I'm glad that things are running smoothly and I'm excited to finish getting in contact with the teachers.

Week 7: senior experience

My initial meeting has been quite pleasant. But I've been working hard to improve my methods though. Mrs. Molay helped me plan my time outline and I have gotten in contact with almost all of the teachers from each respective academy and I'm working on my slideshow to present to the classes and teachers. My links are in order and I'm looking forward to submissions. All of my meetings are through videos but I still maintain a persona as if I was there. My only concern is my school work getting in the way but I'm managing my time and holding myself accountable for all my deadlines. I look forward to my final product and working with all the academies.
